Ask UN Probe of Peiping Aggressor

A United Nation probe of Red China's "consistent record of aggression" yesterday was urged by the Committee of One Million.

The committee, formed in 1953 to fight U. S. recognition of the Peiping government, as well as its admission to U.N., announced it will release today a 176-page "Black Book on Red China," written by Edward Hunter, which is to be distributed to every U.N. delegation.

It will list the "crimes committed by the Peiping regime," a spokesman said. A copy will be presented to U. S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge by Gen. James Van Fleet in a ceremony at 2 Park Ave. at 3 p.m. Van Fleet commanded the U.N. forces in Korea.

The Black Book charges "indirect aggression marks Peiping's relations with every one of the Asian countries" and that the Reds continue to "keep the pot boiling in Indonesia, Thailand, Burma, Malaya and the Philippines."
